Ingredients

- 24 servings apple sauce
- 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 0.3 teaspoon pepper black freshly ground
- 0.3 cup breadcrumbs dried plain fine
- 1 pound onion yellow ( 2)
- 2 large eggs
- 3.5 teaspoons kosher salt
- 3 pounds baking potatoes (4-6)
- 2 tablespoons cooking fat ( ) (chicken fat; optional)

- 24 servings cream sour
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil ( )

Equipment

- food processor
- frying pan
- baking sheet
- paper towels
- oven
- whisk
- wire rack
- kitchen towels
- spatula
- box grater

Directions

- Preheat oven to 325°F. Peel potatoes. Using the large holes of a box grater or the grater disk on a food processor, grate potatoes and onions.
- Transfer to a large kitchen towel. Gather ends of towel; twist over sink and squeeze firmly to wring out as much liquid as possible. Open towel; toss mixture to loosen. Gather towel; wring out once more.
- Whisk eggs, breadcrumbs, salt, baking powder, and pepper in a medium bowl to blend.
- Add potato mixture. Using your fingers, mix until well coated. (Latke mixture should be wet and thick, not soupy.)
- Line a large rimmed baking sheet with several layers of paper towels. Set a wire rack inside another large rimmed baking sheet; set aside.
- Heat 2 tablespoons schmaltz, if using, and 2 tablespoons oil (or 4 tablespoons oil if not using schmaltz; fat should measure about 1/8") in a 12" nonstick skillet over medium-high heat. Drop a small amount of latke mixture into pan. If the fat sizzles around the edges, it's ready. (Do not let fat smoke.)

- Working in batches and adding moreschmaltz and oil to skillet as needed to maintain 1/8" fat, drop large spoonfuls of mixture into pan, pressing gently with the back of a spoon or spatula to flatten slightly. (If mixture becomes watery between batches, mix to incorporate; do not drain.)
- Cook latkes, occasionally rotating pan for even browning, until golden brown and cooked through, 2 1/2–3 minutes per side. (If small pieces of potato floating in the oil start to burn, carefully strain out.)
- Transfer latkes to paper towel-lined baking sheet to drain, then transfer to prepared wire rack.
- Place sheet with latkes in oven to keep warm and crisp while cooking remaining latkes.
- Serve warm latkes with applesauce and sour cream.
