- ☐ 1 carrots peeled thinly sliced (see "It's that easy")
- ☐ 1.8 cups chicken broth
- ☐ 12 oz filets black
- ☐ 1 tbsp sherry dry
- ☐ 2 tsp cilantro leaves fresh minced

- ☐ 1 tbsp ginger fresh minced peeled
- ☐ 1 spring onion thinly sliced (see "It's that easy")
- ☐ 2 servings pepper black freshly ground
- ☐ 1 tsp sesame oil toasted
- ☐ 1 tsp sesame seed
- ☐ 1 tsp soya sauce plus more if needed
- ☐ 1 tsp sugar
- ☐ 3 oz udon noodles
- ☐ 1 tbsp vegetable oil

Equipment

- ☐ bowl
- ☐ frying pan
- ☐ ladle
- ☐ knife
- ☐ whisk

Directions

- ☐ Pat the fillets dry and sprinkle all over with salt and pepper.
- ☐ In a small bowl, whisk together the chicken broth, sherry, soy sauce, sugar, five-spice powder, and sesame oil. Set aside.
- ☐ Heat a 12-in/30.5-cm skillet with a lid over medium-high heat and add the vegetable oil. When the oil shimmers, add the bok choy stems, carrot, and ginger and sauté until the bok choy turns bright green and the ginger is fragrant, about 2 minutes.
- ☐ Add the broth mixture and bring to a simmer.
- ☐ Add the noodles and give them a stir to keep them from sticking. When the broth returns to a simmer, top the noodles and veggies with the fish, bok choy leaves, and green onion. Cover, reduce the heat to low, and simmer until the noodles and fish are tender and cooked through, about 4 minutes. Taste and add more soy sauce or pepper if the mix needs it.

- ☐ Divide the noodles and fish between two warmed shallow bowls and ladle the broth and vegetables over.
- ☐ Garnish with the cilantro and sesame seeds and serve hot.
- ☐ Cutting vegetables on the diagonal is an Asian technique that exposes more cut surface to heat, helping the vegetables to cook faster. They also look prettier cut that way. Just angle your knife and slice away. You'll get the hang of it in no time.Extra hungry?
- ☐ Serve a bigger piece of fish. About 8 oz/225 g should do it.In the glass: Try a Sauvignon Blanc from New Zealand, such as Kim Crawford or Pomelo for tropical fruit and a zesty finish.
