Ingredients

- 2 tablespoon capers rinsed drained
- 1 tablespoon horseradish prepared plus more for serving
- 0.5 juice of lemon
- 1 teaspoon lemon zest
- 1 tablespoon olive oil extra-virgin
- 0.5 pound salmon raw thinly sliced
- 3 tablespoon scallions light white green thinly sliced

- 1 pinch sea salt
- 2 tablespoon shallots finely minced

Equipment

- mixing bowl
- cutting board

Directions

- On a cutting board, stack the salmon several slices high and cut into ¼-inch cubes. Then roughly chop the cubes until they are about 1/8-inch pieces, but not puréed. Some variable texture is good. In a medium nonreactive mixing bowl, gently stir together the salmon, with all the remaining ingredients, except the cucumber and baguette slices. Line the bottom of a serving tray with the cucumber slices laid out in concentric circles. Mound the tartare over the slices, cover, and refrigerate for at least 1 hour to allow the flavors to meld and the tartare to chill.
- Serve them on top of the baguette slices, with a bit of cucumber and additional horseradish on the side as optional add-ons.
